

New Mexico University Newman Club Observes Decade of Development

The following brief history of the Aquinas Newman Center was published recently on the occasion of the organization's observance of a "decade of development."

The decade of development, from 1950 to 1960, marks the period of construction and growth of a Newman foundation, with adequate facilities, for the Catholic student body at UNM. But the story of the Newman Club, as a student organization, spans nearly a quarter of a century.

The earliest reference to the Newman apostolate at UNM, found in the archives of the Archdiocese of Santa Fe, is a letter from Monsignor Peoples, pastor of St. Charles' Church, to Archbishop Gerken. According to this letter, dated March 19, 1936, the "initial meeting" of persons interested in Newman work was held that Sunday.

Monsignor Peoples celebrated Mass for 64 UNM students, some Catholic members of the faculty and "a number of university graduates now prominent in local affairs." Father Aches, S.J., residing at Immaculate Conception Rectory and engaged in graduate work at the university, preached the sermon on "Newman and His Spiritual Life." At the breakfast following the Mass, Dr. St. Clair, head of the English department at the university, spoke on "Newman's Place in Literature."

On June 11, 1937, Father Julius Hartmann was appointed pastor of St. Charles' by Archbishop Gerken. At the same time he was appointed to direct the work of the Newman Club. In the fall of that year, the Newman Club was firmly established with regular officers and meetings. In December of 1937, the parish bulletin lists the following officers: President, Frank Rowe; vice presidents, Daniel Smith and Gracia Mocho; secretary, Kathryn Hamlin; and treasurer, Romulo Oliphant.

Faculty advisers in this first phase of Newman work were Julia Keleher and Marie Milne. In 1938, the president was Dan Smith and in 1939 it was Frank Graham. In December of 1939, Mrs. Harriet Monk Tiedebohl recalls helping the students with a Newman dance at the Alvarado Hotel. In 1940, according to Frank Graham, the club was invited to send a delegate to a national meeting of Newman Clubs in New York, but no one was able to go.

If we may speed up our historical sketch, it was in the spring of 1950 that Archbishop Byrne purchased land and a building from Sigma Chi Fraternity. In May of that year, he asked the Albuquerque Council of Catholic Women to sponsor the furnishing and decorating of the "new" Newman house by Sept. 1.

Mary Francis Mackel was appointed chairlady of the project. Mrs. Frank Lingo was assigned to the furnishing of the kitchen and Mrs. John Milne was in charge of furnishing the chapel. Chain picnics and luncheons were organized to acquaint the women of Albuquerque with the work to be done.

In 1951, Mrs. Jerome Doherty presented the first $1,000 of a $15,000 pledge to the Archbishop.

In that year, Mrs. Milne became chairlady of the now-formed Newman cliques to dissolve the pledge debt. (On this 10th anniversary, five years ahead of schedule, this original debt has been paid.)

The rest is recent history. The new St. Thomas Aquinas' University Church was erected in 1954, dedicated by Cardinal Spellman in September of that year. The old Aquinas Hall was razed in 1957 and gave way to two new buildings, a lounge and auditorium for the students, and a community house for the Dominican chaplains.

Prominent benefactors, through benefit shows, were George Gobel in 1958 and Bob Hope in 1959. In the fall of 1959, first in the southwest in the history of the Newman Federation, the Aquinas Newman Center was host to the National Newman Club Convention.

The future history of the Aquinas Newman Center will be told at another anniversary celebration—perhaps in 1975?

Implementing Newman Apostolate at UNM

Newman Scholar

Ted Martinez, representing Newman Alumni of the University of New Mexico, presents to Richard L. Hutt (left), UNM junior from Albuquerque, a commemorative plaque recognizing him as the first recipient of the Father Bartholomew Ryan Memorial scholarship, applicable to tuition and fees next fall. The presentation took place at the annual Newman Honors banquet, March 13.

Here is the prize-winning essay on the Newman Apostolate: The title is "HOW IT CAN BE IMPLEMENTED ON THE UNIVERSITY OF NEW MEXICO CAMPUS."

In order to develop an idea on the Newman Apostolate, it would be of benefit to go to the man who really started the Apostolate, namely, John Henry, Cardinal Newman. In his University Sketches he drew from the ancient designation "Studium Generale" for his description of a university. This translates as "School of Universal Learning."

From a description of a university as a school of universal learning comes the idea, for which Newman received much attention, of a liberal education. A man who has a liberal education would be one who is well versed in many respects, arts, sciences, and social relationships. However, if he limits his education to pure mental development, his liberal education becomes sterile and one sided. The apparent paradox of liberality and sterility can be explained by the fact that when a man neglects equal development of his moral life, he is indeed sterile, one sided, and in some respects dead.

It can be said then, that the Newman Apostolate exists for the purpose of rounding out, as it were, and for equalling the spiritual and mental aspects of education. There is a temptation at this point to stop and say that this is indeed the essence of the Newman Apostolate; and that recognition of this fact is all that is really necessary for spiritual fulfillment. This attitude is reflected by the student who comes to a Newman Center seeking, and generally finding, social stimulation. This is not to say that social activity is evil, since in reality it too is necessary for the complete development of an educated man; but in excess it can present some problems. For example, this student often feels that in some nebulous manner his Soul will be strengthened, in what can be termed "innocence by association."

So now the student arrives at a problem. He realizes what the general purpose of the Newman Apostolate is. He recognizes it as an instrument of his salvation. But how does he implement it to fulfill the potential of both himself and the Apostolate?

Since it was mentioned above that the student who comes to the Newman (Turn to page 3)

AN EXPERT on Berlin, Reut Goetze, who is political editor of Radio Information American Sector, West Berlin, Germany, will be heard Wednesday in the lecture hall of the Geology Building. He spent two years in the U.S. as a prisoner of war after his capture in 1944 by Patton's troops.

Goetze is a world renowned expert on Berlin's cultural and political history. His visit is sponsored by the modern language department.

Howard K. Smith, who has probably received more journalistic awards than any other newsmen, will come to the campus Feb. 18. Author, Rites scholar, correspondent and ABC News commentator, Smith is especially known for his Sunday "Issues and Answers" radio and television program.

HIS DISCUSSION will take place at 8:15 p.m. under auspices of the cultural committee.

Dr. Mortimer J. Adler, long associated with the Great Books of the Western World and the Syntopicon, will be in Albuquerque Feb. 24 as guest of the Newman Forum.

Controversial author and educator, Dr. Adler is known to abide by his dictum that the philosopher belongs in the market place. He has filled such non-academic roles as adviser to the Hays Office, indoctrination lecturer for the U.S. Air Transport Command and merchandising consultant.

His subject will be "The Questions Science Cannot Answer."

Newman Center Awards Presented At Annual Honors Banquet

Achievement, scholarship and service were recognized at the annual Honors Banquet recently at the Aquinas Newman Center on the University of New Mexico campus.

During a program, presided over by Father Robert Goedert, O. P., director of the center, awards were given to outstanding students and adults who have done the most for the religious organization during the past year.

Father Stephen Shimek presented certificates for the outstanding awards to Fred Chavez, Albuquerque, as server; Terry Calvani, Carlsbad, lector; Carolyn Blasdel, Amarillo, Tex., sacristan; Jimmy Moore, Albuquerque, usher.

Also Jeanne DeValk, Albuquerque, classes in Christian Doctrine. Eleven certificates were given to CCD teachers and assistants including Arlene Barber, Santa Fe; Gloria Birkholz, Rifle, Colo.; Edith Hill, Silver City; and Kathy Rose, Los Alamos. Those from Albuquerque include Mrs. John Barnette, Cynthia Bordelon, Dr. William Byatt, Jeanne DeValk, Odell Johnson, Capt. Glen Raymond, and Tom Shishman.

Margaret Mary Barela, Albuquerque, received the Musician Award. Others noted were organists: Kay Bratton and Margaret Mary Barela, Albuquerque; and Dennis Lovinfosse, Pine Beach, N. J.; and guitarists: Leslie Argo, Los Alamos; Audrey Pascual, Santa Fe;

The guitarist winners from Albuquerque are Diane Herrera, Rick Hutt, Mike Keller, Cathy Peixotto, and Liz Zimmer. The Freshman Award went to Steve Gillen, and the Sophomore Award to Steve Baca. Both are from Albuquerque.

The Aquinas Hall Award, a Jerusalem Bible, was presented to John Pound, Santa Fe, by Father Thomas Flynn.

Dean Harold Lavender presented Bob Whelan, Albuquerque, with a certificate for the Campus Service Award. Whelan is the Inter Religious Council president.

Gift Certificates for the Married Group Appreciation Awards were presented by Dr. Dominic Bruzese, chairman of the Newman Married Group. The certificates went to three Albuquerqueans. They are Bernadette Gutierrez and Rose Ann Hernandez, who provided baby-sitting during Sunday Masses, and Rick Hutt, who provided accompaniment during home Masses.

Eight Albuquerqueans also received Newman Keys, an award presented to seniors for notable participation for four years. They are Jeanne DeValk, Jerry Flewell, Pat Gorman, Rick Hutt, Craig Othmer, Jerri Roybal, Chris Silleroy, and Bob Whelan.

Sister Mary Therese presented the Newman Appreciation Award for adults to six Albuquerqueans. The recipients and their awards are Dr. and Mrs. Raymond MacCurdy, president of Women's Guild, statue; Ella Stone-lake and Katherine White, Newman Cliques, statues; Jack Eckert Huber, Newman Forum Membership Committee, plaque; Marge Solenberger, UNM news bureau, plaque; A. J. Groebner, C.P.A., plaque; and Norm and Marilu Scott, Newman Center, statue.

Honor Society certificate and key, a rarely given award, was presented to two Albuquerque students by Prof. Mercedes Gugisberg, instructor of health, physical education and recreation at UNM. Judy Cantwell was selected on the basis of being active as an alumna, and her outstanding inspiration, incentive and cooperation with students. Jim Cutler was chosen for his top participation in Newman activities during his entire career.

Prof. Gugisberg and Mrs. Cantwell's husband, John, are the only two known to have been awarded this honor at UNM prior to this spring's banquet.

Father Goedert presented Rick Hutt with the Outstanding Newmanite plaque, also a distinguished award.

The Eva Bogen Awards were presented to three students from Albuquerque by Father Emanuel Kleiner. Receiving $50 scholarships were James Clark and Dianne Katz. Patrick G. Olaschea was awarded a $50 service award.

The Father Bart Ryan Memorial Scholarship, a $300

Ground to Be Broken Mar. 7 For Chapel at N. Mex. Univ.

Newman Center Starts 5-Year Expansion Plan With 400-Seat Edifice

Albuquerque.—On March 7, the patronal feast day, ground will be broken for the new St. Thomas Aquinas Student Chapel adjoining the campus of the University of New Mexico.

His Excellency, Archbishop Edwin V. Byrne, will preside at the ground-breaking ceremony, which will be held at 5 p.m. in front of Aquinas Newman Center at 1815 Las Lomas Road, N. E.

Fourth Degree Honor Guard

An honor guard of Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus will attend the Archbishop as university students and officials and their guests witness the historic ceremony. The new Catholic chapel is the first church to be erected for university students, and the beginning of a five-year plan of expansion and development of the Aquinas Newman Center.

According to future plans, three more buildings will complete a quadrangle surrounding a 100 x 100-foot court in the center of the property.

The new chapel, which will follow the pueblo pattern of architecture characteristic of the university, will accommodate 400 students and will be completed by the opening of the fall semester next September.

The chapel will be located on the southeast corner of the present property along Las Lomas Road. The altar, at the east end of the building, will face a large window taking the place of the east wall. The entrance, at the western end of the building, will be approached through a wide open terrace. The architect is James S. Liberty of Albuquerque.

Future buildings in the expansion plan will include a unit for offices, lecture rooms, library and auditorium, a residence hall and cafeteria, and a chaplains' residence.

The expansion of the Newman Center coincides with the expected growth of the university and will provide for the proportionate increase of Catholic students.

With these expanded facilities, Aquinas Newman Center can make adequate provision for the religious, cultural, and social life of Catholic students at the university. It will also serve as a civic and archdiocesan center of Catholic activity.

NATIONAL CHAPLAIN of the National Newman Club Federation, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Robert E. Tracy, arrived in Albuquerque Wednesday for an official visit to the University of New Mexico's new Newman Club. He was greeted by the Rev. Fr. Anselm Townsend, O.P., left, and the Rev. Fr. Richard Butler, right, chaplains at the Newman Club. He will leave today for Tucson, Ariz. (Redman photo)

National Newman Club Chaplain Visits University

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Robert E. Tracy, national chaplain of the National Newman Club Federation, told members of the Aquinas Newman Center at the University of New Mexico Wednesday night their group "has gained and merited national attention as a model club."

Msgr. Tracy, who supervises Newman Club activity on more than 600 college campuses in the United States, arrived here Wednesday afternoon for his official visit to the club, which serves as a Catholic Center on the campus, providing religious, educational and social programs for its members. He singled out the recently constructed St. Thomas Aquinas Chapel as tangible evidence of progress here and praised "the beauty of this marvelous combination of traditional and modern architecture."

He reminded students of their obligation to "achieve a spiritual maturity and integrity that is our principal need now and your assurance of a peaceful prosperity in the future." The work of the National Newman Club Federation, particularly the function of the national office in relation to affiliated clubs, was described by the chaplain.

Prior to his talk, Msgr. Tracy was entertained at a tea given by the Newman Clique, an organization of Catholic Women in Albuquerque that serves as an assisting auxiliary to the Newman Center. The tea and reception was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Fanning, 1000 Parkland Circle SE.

Msgr. Tracy leaves Albuquerque this afternoon for Tucson, where he will address the Newman Club of the University of Arizona.

OFFICIAL CATHOLIC NEWSPAPER OF THE STATE OF NEW MEX

To Teach Catechists

The Rev. Bartholomew Ryan, O.P., D.D., Ph.L., is a member of the faculty of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine Leadership Course scheduled at the College of St. Joseph in Albuquerque June 16 to July 31. He will teach the course entitled "Dogmatic and Scriptural Foundation for Catechists." This course will include an exposition of the dogmatic basis for the teaching of the Apostles' Creed, an analysis of the scriptural proof of the sacraments, and cases and problems relating to the Commandments.

Father Ryan taught during the regular summer session at the college in the past year and is also scheduled to teach general psychology during the regular summer session this year. He is at present teaching psychiatric ethics at Nazareth Sanitarium and ethics at the Regina School of Nursing.

He is assistant chaplain at Aquinas Newman Center, where he gives courses in fundamentals of religion, theology, and Confraternity of Christian Doctrine teachers' training.

He attended De Paul University in Chicago for three years and received a Ph.L. degree at the Dominican House of Studies in Illinois, and a doctorate in theology at the Dominican House of Studies in Dubuque, Ia.

Father Ryan is a former Chicagoan. He is a former member of the United States Army Medical Corps.

Dominican Conducts University Retreat

"A new lease on life," was the expressed reaction of one of the many Catholic students attending the first annual week-end retreat at the Newman Center of the University of New Mexico. Under the direction of Fr. Gilbert Graham, O.P., students set aside scholastic and social interests to spend

Feb. 11, 12, 13 in reflection and prayer.

Father Graham, nationally known for his many school retreats, came to Albuquerque from Chicago to conduct the spiritual exercises at St. Thomas Aquinas Chapel on the university campus.

"Your most precious possession," he reminded the students,

"is your life—the life of sanctifying grace in your soul."

Father Graham preached seven conferences during the retreat. He described the effects of grace, "that joy and peace that surpasses understanding" and elicits your feverish, often misguided, efforts in all that you do.

Practical advice, pertinent to campus life, warned them of the danger of death, "the loss of God's life in your soul." He praised the practical helps, religious and educational, provided at the Newman Center, but warned "it's up to you to use them to the fullest, to the fullness of supernatural life."

In his final conference, Father Graham told the retreatants that the success of their retreat depended not on his words nor on their immediate reflections, but "on the effects manifest in your daily life throughout the year."

The student retreat closed at the 8:30 Mass on Sunday, followed by a breakfast in the lounge of the center. Student members of the Newman Club prepared and served the meal.

Father Graham then conducted a day of recollection at the university chapel, sponsored by the Newman Alumni and the Third Order of St. Dominic. He returned to Chicago last Monday to fulfill a speaking engagement there.

University of New Mexico Is 1959 Newman Rally Site

The University of New Mexico was chosen as the site for the 1959 national convention of the National Federation of Newman Clubs; which will be held Aug. 24 through 29 at the Aquinas Newman Center.

The site was voted on by the members of the national executive committee at their spring meeting, which was held at the university on April 25, 26, and 27.

The New Mexico club won over the University of California at Berkeley, with a vote of 16 to six, with five votes not cast.

The convention will bring nearly 1,000 Catholic students from throughout the United States to Albuquerque. The convention meetings will be held in Johnson gymnasium on the campus and the delegates will be accommodated in university housing.

Senator Dennis Chavez, senior Senator from New Mexico, gave the address at the meeting, inviting all the delegates to vote for New Mexico for the national gathering.

Dr. Sherman Smith, director of student affairs at U. N. M., said prior to the meeting that all of the university's facilities would be at the disposal of the convention delegates.

Ted Martinez, chairman of the Santa Fe Province of Newman clubs, said that the Chamber of Commerce in Albuquerque would back the convention. Martinez also made the bid for the convention.

Father William J. Sullivan, assistant chaplain at the University of California Newman club, made the bid for that chapter.

Newman Club Federation Discusses National Fund

More than 75 delegates, representing 100,000 members of Newman clubs for Catholic students on secular college campuses, were present at the spring meeting of the national executive committee of the National Newman Club Federation at the Aquinas Newman Center on the University of New Mexico campus, Albuquerque.

Important items of business included, national officer reports, the election of an interim national secretary, Miss Yvonne Degree, Long Beach State College, and a discussion on the rapid growth of the federation within the past year.

This expansion caused serious consideration of the question of full-time administration personnel and the establishment of a National Newman Fund.

The meetings, which were held April 25, 26, and 27, were conducted by Walter J. Markel, Jr., of Long Beach State College, national president. The primary purpose of the meetings was the training of province chairmen elected in the different areas of the nation.

This training was accomplished through effective use of panel sessions and small group discussions.

The new officers studied all phases of the Newman movement and covered the problems and proposed solutions in such areas as association in outside activities, club program planning, and co-ordination with the local Newman club members.

The meeting concluded with the settlement of plans for the national Newman Club Federation convention in September, which will be held at Ohio State University, and the choice of the University of New Mexico as the site for the 1959 national convention.

Two Albuquerque Students' Poems Win in Contest

Albuquerque.—Mary Martha Sanderson and Kathleen Kelly, students at St. Vincent's Academy, have earned state honors in a poetry contest sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of America.

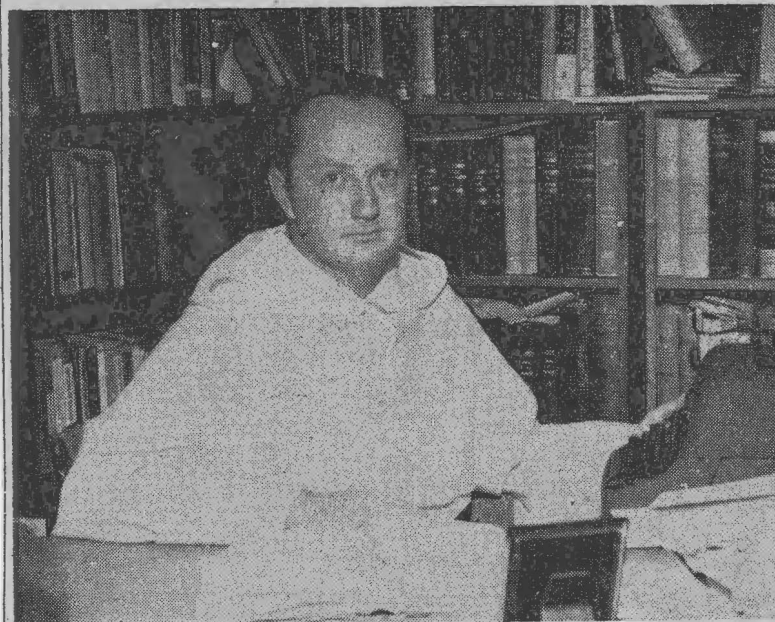

Mary Martha Sanderson, daughter of Captain and Mrs. E. G. Sanderson, 1303 13th Loop Sandia Base, submitted the poem, entitled "The Crown of Thorns," that won first prize in Division II, junior high class.

Kathleen Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kelly, 1614 Escalante SW, won third prize in Division I grade school class with "Omnipresence."

The poems were judged at the state Catholic Daughters of America convention in Gallup. The certificates of awards and the gifts will be presented to the girls on class day at St. Vincent's Academy.

The poems will be submitted to the national court of the Catholic Daughters of America to compete for national honors.

MESA MESSENGER

Rev. Richard E. Butler O.P., an authority on working with young people, will be one of the main speakers.

Rev. Richard Butler's "Buzz" Talks To Be Sodality Convention Highlight

"Buzz" Sessions will be the special feature of the talks to Sodalists by the Reverend Richard Butler, O.P. Since Father Butler is best known as "Father Jim" in his weekly column in the Young Catholic Messenger he was chosen especially for his interest and work with youth to speak to the young Sodalists at the Convention.

Father Butler has kept in special contact with youth through vocational direction and school retreats. He has also contributed short stories and articles to numerous publications.

A native of Salem, Massachusetts, Father Butler graduated from St. John's Preparatory School in Danvers, Mass., and took his college studies at Notre Dame University and the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C. He entered the Dominican Order in the mid-western province of St. Albert the Great in 1942. At the Pontifical Studium of St. Thomas Aquinas in River Forest, Ill. He did work on philosophical and theological studies. Father was ordained in 1949 in Chicago and continued his studies, obtaining the degree of Licentiate in Philosophy and Lector of Sacred Theology.

In 1940 Father Butler went to Europe for two years of advanced study, receiving the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the Angelicum in Rome in 1952. His dissertation work was a critical study of the philosophy of George Santayana done with the assistance of the man himself, who was the former dean of philosophy at Harvard, Santayana was then in retirement in Rome. This work will be published next Spring by Regnery & Company under the title, THE MIND OF SANTAYANA.

Father Butler who is now serving as chaplain at the Aquinas Newman Center of the University of New Mexico, is Province Chaplain for all Newman Clubs in New Mexico and southwestern Texas. Recently he was appointed national secretary of the National Association of Newman Club Chaplains at the 1954 convention in Detroit.

In addition to teaching psychology at the College of St. Joseph, he teaches moral psychiatry to nurses in psychiatric training at Nazareth Sanatorium in Alameda. He also conducts theology classes at the Newman Center and lectures in philosophy at the University of New Mexico.

Proceeds will be used for a gift to the St. Mary Convent.

official and sacramental nature, in relation to the mystery of Redemption. The various liturgical rites, their origins and developments, will be explained. Consideration also will be given to the altar and its furnishings.

Mass Enacted

From the vesting of the priest to his investing, the Mass will be enacted, with the celebrant facing the people at a portable altar in the sanctuary. Slowly, as the Mass proceeds, the narrator will explain each part, the significance of every word and action. If time permits, the narrator will answer questions from the audience.

Public announcements of this Mass-in-Slow-Motion invite non-Catholics as well as Catholics, the general public as well as the student body, to attend. To help the audience to follow the oral explanation, printed outlines of the action of the Mass will be distributed. The outlines are supplied by the national office of the Newman Club Federation as an educational service to local clubs.

Newman Club Plans Building

The Newman Club at the University of New Mexico yesterday approved a $150,000 building project which will include new student center, two-story chaplain's residence and auditorium.

Ground will be broken in mid-May and the building will be completed in time for the fall semester, according to Rev. Richard Butler, Newman Center chaplain.

Intensive fund-raising plans were mapped at a breakfast meeting yesterday, and student chairman Bob Cheshire said the $150,000 should be raised within two years.

Special Projects

Most of the money will be raised by special projects, he said. A Hollywood show with name stars is planned in the civic auditorium in July.

The building fund now contains $5000.

When completed the structure will form a large U.

The center of the U will contain a large patio, to be used for social functions. A covered portal will surround the patio. Spaces for 30 cars will be provided.

Tear Down Center

The present Newman Center will be torn down. The building, at 1815 Las Lomas Rd. NE, is an Albuquerque landmark. It originally housed the Albuquerque Country Club.

James S. Liberty is architect for the project.

General chairman of the fund will be A. M. Caldwell, of Albuquerque.

Bob Hope, Friends Net Center $15,000

By HOWARD BRYAN
Comedian Bob Hope took one look at Albuquerque's "saucer shaped" Civic Auditorium last night and quipped to a capacity crowd:

"I don't know when it leaves for the moon—but I want to go."

Hope and a star-studded cast of Hollywood and local talent drew a standing room only crowd of 6000 persons, largest in the history of the auditorium, at the benefit show for the Aquinas Newman Center building fund.

Net Is $15,000

The show netted an estimated $15,000 for the building fund, as compared with a net of $8000 last year when George

Gobel headlined a show here for the fund.

The opening of the show was delayed about 35 minutes because the Hollywood troupe did not reach the city until about 5 p.m. and wanted to rehearse some of the numbers with the local Al Hamilton band before going on stage.

Some persons purchase standing room admissions to the 2½-hour show, while hundreds of others were turned away.

Looking over the huge crowd in the auditorium Hope turned to the Rev. Fr. Richard Butler, director of the Aquinas Newman Center, and said:

"Father, you could have hung a few from the ceiling."

Hope, who did not arrive at the auditorium until after a brief 10 p.m. intermission, put part of the blame for his late arrival on the drive through Albuquerque streets.

"Do they have any green lights in this town?" he asked.

Jokes with local color flavored Hope's patter.

Around Albuquerque With Martin

We just returned from one of the Tuesday evening lectures at the University of New Mexico, given by Father Butler, on "Adolescent Psychology." There are still some empty seats in Room 202 of Mitchell Hall at 7:30 p. m. and those who have the evening available are missing some valuable information. These continue each Tuesday night through March. The talks are down-to-earth analyses of special problems of youths 13 to 23 years of age, and should be a must for all parents with children in or approaching this age.

Father Eterovich's lectures on "Ethics" on Monday nights, same room—202, Mitchell Hall, 7:30-8:30 p. m. are also excellent; and if you want the real "History of Philosophy," try Father Townsend's lectures on Thursday night on "The Founders of Scholasticism." March 3 he talks on "Cicero and Seneca." There is still room in all the classes and no registration or fee is required for attendance.

One of the committees of the Albuquerque Deanery Holy Name Union is very active. Last Tuesday the committee "Helping the Youth," met at Newman Club and pretty much organized the literature which will be on

Kennedy at Newman Chapel

By FRANK SLOWEN

Senator John Fitzgerald Kennedy attended mid-morning Mass Sunday at the chapel of the University of New Mexico's Newman Center in Albuquerque.

Kennedy took time off from his hectic feature role as the main attraction of the day at the locally held Western Democratic Conference, to fulfill his Sabbath obligation here. Although Kennedy's church schedule had not been publicly announced, sufficient word leaked out of his proposed visit to the center to fill the chapel to near-capacity for the 10:30 a.m. service.

The Dominican Rite Mass was offered by Father John Walsh, O.P. Sitting in the third pew forward, the Massachusetts Senator heard Father Tim Sullivan, O.P., direct a hard-driven sermon to young and old on the importance of being docile.

Before being rushed back to the political scene after Mass, Kennedy was hosted to a coffee and doughnuts reception by Father Richard Butler, the spiritual director in charge, of the center. More than 300 eager students and friends seized the opportunity of getting a close-up glimpse of the youthful-appearing Presidential aspirant. In spite of the fast pace, not a lock of Kennedy's prominent pomp strayed out of place as he enthusiastically moved about the hall greeting one and all. Two cups of coffee and one doughnut went untouched as well-wishers pumped his hand and prodded him with questions. One asked, "What about the religious issue?" Flashing his well-polished smile, Kennedy replied: "Yes,—I go to church!"

Speculation was carried further by the students on the issue. Anita Bachicha, a senior coed commented: "I think he would make a good President, however his Catholic faith will probably be a deterrent." Her companion, Camille Cattaneo, (Turn to Page 4 — Column 4)

Kennedy Attends University Mass

Tony Neely, a male student of the university, presented a more positive statement by saying, "I read somewhere that Kennedy is a good Catholic. Therefore I feel he deserves every Catholic's support." A non-student and mother of eight children, Mrs. Silas Garcia, differed in this belief. A declared Democrat, she felt that party lines should not be jumped because of a candidate's religion. "I would never think of voting for a Catholic Republican," she said.

Leaving behind a general feeling of good-will, as expressed by observers, Kennedy thanked Father Butler for his courtesies, and at noon headed back to the convention to test his charms on New Mexico's Democratic delegates.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR — The Newman Center on the U.N.M. campus in Albuquerque received a distinguished visitor last Sunday, as Sen. John Kennedy attended Sunday Mass in the Newman Chapel. Shown above with a group of well-wishers are the Senator and the Rev. Richard Butler, O.P., center chaplain.

Implementing Newman Apostolate at UNM

(Continued from Page 1) at the Center. He has taken some classes there. He has attended every Sunday night meeting, and he has probably made enough posters to gain some credits in commercial art; but he has not made use of the Newman Apostolate to its greatest extent. In order to accomplish proper implementation he does not have to go to any of the great writings of Cardinal Newman. What he should really do is to take another, careful look at the name of what he is trying to implement: The Newman Apostolate. Apostolate. It sounds a great deal like apostle; and perhaps the student, in his quandary, remembers that apostles were called by our Lord "Fishers of men." However this seems a little archaic in the twentieth

Thus the student still has not resolved the problem, and yet he has involved himself deeply. He goes to Mass several times weekly century, because after all, the Church was just getting started and men were needed to fill the ranks so Christ just sort of called them "Fishers of men" to give them impetus to accomplish their task, but now there are many Catholics so we really do not have to worry about "fishing" today. If the student stops here, there is a good chance that he will never be implementing the Newman Apostolate because it is indeed in the word Apostolate that the problem can be resolved.

We are fishers of men, in every sense that our Lord gave to the term. When we receive the Sacrament of Confirmation, we receive the same Grace of the Holy Spirit that the original eleven Apostles received on Pentecost Sunday. With this gift, however, comes an obligation to fulfill the Apostolic tasks with which we are presented. We face many of the same problems that the first apostles faced, the chief one being a secular environment in which we have to work. Since we all cannot actually go out into the world as apostolic missionaries, we have the obligation to act as apostles in our own environment, which is that of the University of New Mexico. By setting examples which reflect our Christianity and which reflect the Graces and material benefits that we receive on this particular campus, we are in fact acting as Christ's Apostles, and indeed, we are implementing the Newman Apostolate. If we take the initiative to help a Catholic friend who has trouble in regularly receiving the Sacraments, we become like the Apostles who devoted their entire lives to this work. When we demonstrate the courage to walk away from a session on the local sex activities, we are not unlike St. Paul who worked so hard among such secular-oriented people as the Corinthians. When we accept the responsibility of being Christians in the Newman Apostolate, then it is that the Newman Apostolate comes alive and is implemented, in the classroom, in the dorm, at the basketball game, in our lives through our example to others.

presently occupied by a flagstone terrace; and the two-story chaplains' residence in the rear. The present student lounge in the area occupied by the chaplains' building will be torn down. In the center of the U will be a large patio surrounded by a covered portal as shown. The street in the foreground is Las Lomas NE.

University Newman Club Planning New Center, Auditorium, Residence

The University of New Mexico Newman Club gave the go-ahead Sunday to a $150,000 building project which will include a new student center, an auditorium, and a two-story chaplain's residence.

The decision to begin construction on the project immediately was made at a breakfast attended by 40 student leaders and some 60 adult friends of the center. A spokesman said ground will be broken in May and the buildings will be completed in time for the 1957 fall semester.

Plans for an intensive fund drive were mapped at the breakfast, and student chairman Bob Cheshire said the entire $150,000 should be raised within two years.

The bulk of the money will be raised through special projects, Cheshire said. One of these will be a Hollywood spectacular in July at the newivic auditorium. Name stars will appear in the professionally-produced show, which will run for three days.

Other funds will come from donations from friends of the center. No public subscription drive is planned. The building fund already contains $5,000 which has come through gifts.

The new structures are the second phase of a building program which began with the construction of a 400-seat chapel in 1954. The $110,000 chapel was dedicated by Francis Cardinal Spellman in September of that year.

The proposed student center will be located west of the chapel. A terrace now located in front of the chapel will be enclosed with glass to provide a large lounge with a seating capacity of 300 for lectures and 100 for banquets.

To the north of the terrace lounge will be a service unit containing offices, small lounges, and a large kitchen.

Joining the service unit on the north will be a 39 by 74 foot auditorium, which will seat 500 for lectures and 350 for banquets.

The two-story chaplains' building will join the auditorium on the east. It will contain living quarters for four priests and two brothers, a small chapel seating 32, a kitchen, parlors, and a refectory.

When completed the structure will form a large U. The center of the U will contain a large patio which will be used for social purposes. The patio will be surrounded by a covered portal, and a special parking space for 30 cars will be provided.

The building which houses the present Newman Center will be torn down, marking the end of another Albuquerque landmark. The structure, located in the 1800 block of Las Lomas NE, was built 60 years ago and originally housed the Albuquerque Country Club. It later was occupied by Sigma Chi fraternity, which sold it to the Newman Foundation in 1950.

Architect for the building project is James S. Liberty; who also designed the chapel. Future plans call for the addition of a second floor to the new student center, which will be constructed at first as a one-story building.

The Rev. Richard Butler, center chaplain, said the building project is "an absolute necessity," since the Newman Club has far outgrown its present facilities. The present student lounge seats only 100 persons, he pointed out.

General chairman of the building fund drive will be A. M. Cadwell of Albuquerque. Ben Raskob will serve as financial chairman. Father Butler said an executive committee of adult advisors will be named this week.

Assisting Cheshire as student co-chairmen are Ted Martinez, Sue Williams, and Helen Reynolds, all UNM students of Albuquerque.

Archbishop Edwin V. Byrne presided at Sunday's breakfast meeting and gave his blessing to the building project. Frank Budai of Shiprock, state deputy for the Knights of Columbus, pledged the full support of KC's throughout the state to the project.

Miss Betty Drake, who has worked for the Newman Center for the past three years, is being graduated this June. Betty has been largely responsible for the publication of Newman Focus each month.
